EQUITABLE LIFE.

EXTRACT from the "REVIEW," a prominent INSURANCE JOURNAL published in LONDON, dated 14th July:—
"We on this side of the Atlantic are decidedly tired of hearing and reading about the successful operations of the Equitable of the U.S. As we have always said and still maintain the assets of the Equitable of U.S. are not all that they are represented to be, and that the policyholders or their representatives are being paid with the same punctiliousness as 'creditors'."
"We have not heard that the Equitable's policyholders are dying more rapidly than usual, or that the Company is less able or willing than before to meet its liabilities."
"Remarks of this kind emanating from an Insurance Authority, and being exactly correct, deserve attention and acceptance. Policyholders are as fully secured while their interests are better protected than they were before the publication of the newspaper reports now dealt with."
Hongkong, September 13, 1905.

HONGKONG, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1905.

THE "MIKASA'S" END.

PEACE hath her victories no less renowned than war, says Milton, and she also hath her disasters, no less overwhelming, a fact that has been exemplified in different branches of our own defence service more than once, and which is now particularly brought home to us by the destruction of the battleship "Mikasa" in Japan—the news of which was published by us in the form of an extra yesterday. As the flagship of Admiral Togo throughout the naval expeditions during the present war the "Mikasa" has been under fire on almost every occasion of conflict, and has rendered signal service, never at any time being seriously injured.
Throughout the trying battle of Tsushima, when the Baltic fleet was annihilated, the "Mikasa" was in the forefront of the fighting most of the time, yet she escaped with infinitesimal loss of life and damage. Since then she has not been called upon for much active service—though she has kept an eye upon Vladivostok—and her original crew have been able to reap the rest on shore that has long been denied them. Awaiting the result of the Peace Conference the ship has probably lain in harbour in Japan, and there, whilst dallying with the inglorious arts of peace, she has met a fate that the arts of war could not involve her in. The tremendous loss of life indicates that her full complement of men were aboard, and the terrible suddenness and swiftness of the destruction is demonstrated by the sad length of the death roll. Apparently the fire originated in close proximity to, or in, the magazine, causing an explosion almost before the crew could get to work to extinguish the flames.
Otherwise the loss of life would not have been so great, as an ordinary fire is unable, for lack of substance, to burn very rapidly on such a craft as a minor-war. On a cargo steamer there is generally abundance of inflammable cargo to feed a conflagration, but a man-of-war is supposed to afford the minimum of material for fire to live upon. The element of danger is always present where high explosives are stored, and though the maximum of effort is invariably taken to avert contact with fire, even the best of plans go occasionally awry, and in the loss of the "Mikasa" we probably have one of those disasters which will never be explained, and which occasionally happen despite even the adoption of the most elaborate precautions that human genius can devise to prevent them. Though the present unrest in Japan is likely to cause some people to couple the disaster with dete-mined incendiarism we think such a thing unlikely. There is—as far as we know—no disaffection in the navy, and even if there were it would not be likely to manifest itself in such a form. The complete destruction of a warship is so unusual that the result of the investigation that is certain to ensue will be awaited with interest, especially as it follows so close upon the heels of the destruction of the American gunboat "Bennington" by an explosion in the harbour of San Diego, in July. No nation can afford to lose one of its units in peace time, much less in war time, and any evidence that can be adduced to prevent such disastrous happenings will be of immense value to the world at large. Every nation who has admired the bravery and patriotism of the Japanese, and the mastery skill of Admiral Togo, will sympathize with the nation on the loss of one of their best ships of war, and with Admiral Togo upon the loss of the flagship that has carried him so successfully through the campaign to undying fame. To him the sight of his ship burnt and blown to pieces in the midst of peace will be more affecting than if she went down in the forefront of battle, and the feelings of the man who has gained honour and glory and defied the Czar and death on her decks can be better imagined than described.

LORD CURZON'S EXIT.

THE Indian papers now coming to hand are as full of Lord Curzon's retirement, as the Japanese papers are full of peace and anti-peace argument. There generally seems to be relief at the Viceroy's departure. The Statesman feels assured that whatever view may be taken of Lord Curzon and his work in India there will be almost complete unanimity among all classes of the community upon one point, namely, that the present ending of so distinguished a viceregalty is little less than a tragedy.
Lord Curzon has aroused not criticism only, but furious opposition and impassioned resentment. His general policy during the past three years has seemed to many the embodiment of a hard and illiberal creed, the almost fanatical expression of a complete distrust of the people and their institutions. Yet all men have seen in him, and have ac-knowledgeed with admiration and astonishment, a grasp of administration, a power of labour, and a devotion to an ideal of duty which have very rarely been combined in so signal a degree in the person of a single public man.
But when the time shall have arrived for a dispassionate review of his administration the critic who is clear of the din and dust of contemporary controversy will probably be puzzled at the inequalities presented by his subject.
He will, the Pioneer hazards, find speeches rising to classic levels side by side with speeches that might be selected as examples of the defects of tediousness and prolixity. He will find State papers that are models of what the utterances of a great Government should be, while he will find others plentifully disfigured by the shallow artifices of the dialectician. He will see a Viceroy, often peremptory, and autocratic, on many occasions descending into the forum to argue and explain where others would have simply passed orders. But most of all, when he comes to the final act, he will be perplexed to comprehend that a statesman who has carried on the Government committed to him for six years, finding his way successfully through so many big questions and thorny controversies, should, in the plenitude of his experience, make such dismal failure of his exit. Not only has Lord Curzon failed in his exit, according to the Dumay Gazette, but also in his administration, and that his journal scorns the suggestion that his resignation is a calamity to India, and British interests in the East. The native Bengal press is pretty much of the same opinion; is in fact jubilant to see the last of Lord Curzon. His resignation is regarded not only as fortunate but providential, since it permits the hope that the proposed partition will not be carried through. Very large meetings were held recently in consequence of the news of Lord Curzon's resignation. Patriotic speeches were made by certain well-known Bengalis and songs were sung by bands of students. Displays of chitra, illuminations, and bomb-firing were prominent features of the meetings. The speeches all went to prove the fact that the change in Government is popular. The crowd expressed its feeling in an unmistakably delighted fashion. The feeling in Calcutta commercial trade circles is one of sympathy with Lord Curzon in his defeat by the Secretary of State, but one of relief at the conclusion of the autocratic regime of the last few years, which has become a source of irritation and dissatisfaction to all classes of the non-official community. And this is the voice of a people who have lived under Lord Curzon's rule: We should imagine the Foreign Office congratulates itself upon his resignation, seeing how universal is the dissatisfaction felt in India.
Great Britain cannot afford to allow a creator of ill-feeling to have sway in a vast country like India, and it is to be hoped Lord Minto restores general equanimity in the country and brings about the co-operation that should exist between the authorities and the people to ensure prosperity and progress.

Amongst the passengers who left the Colon yesterday with the R. M. S.
"Tartar" was the Chief Justice, Sir Francis Piggott, on extended vacation leave.

THE TRAMWAY BILL.

A BILL of more than ordinary interest was to have come before the Legislative Council this afternoon for its third reading, and a great amount of public interest has been centred in its progress through the preliminary stages. We refer to the New Tramway Bill. The discussion which arose when it was first mooted and which received a great impetus on the purchase of the concession by the existing Company is too fresh in the public mind to need recapitulation. The Ordinance provides for the construction of a tramway from Battery Path, near Queen's Road, to the Peak, via the Public Gardens and Glenelly. The gauge will be not less than four feet eight inches in width and there will be a double line laid down, the length of the line being estimated at about one mile. There can be no doubt that the scheme will prove a success, provided the consent of the Legislators is obtained to put the work in hand. The line will tap new districts and will prove a distinct boom to a large number of people, as well as enhancing the value of the property along the line of route.
The fares laid down in the Ordinance for a single journey to the Peak are: first-class 30 cents, second-class 20 cents, and third-class 10 cents. It will be a difficult matter for the builders if the line is to run a double track over portions of the route, notably Glenelly, and it is to be hoped that the beauties of that locality, which beyond doubt, is one of the most picturesque spots in the Colony, are not destroyed. Many people hold that picturesqueness should be considered before matters utilitarian, but of course, in a Colony which is progressing like Hongkong, that is beside the question, though the most rigorous precautions should be taken to prevent unwelcome vandalism.

The correspondent of the Figaro who described the fetes in England makes Sir John Fisher responsible for this audacious joke. There had been a question whether the French officers who went to London should arrive at Waterloo station or at Victoria, and when it was decided to go to Victoria Sir John Fisher said, 'There is no more Waterloo for France. Only retreat is possible.'

Here (writes F. A. G. in the Japan Chronicle) is another specimen of English as he wrote. It is on a map of Japan, published apparently by authority of some Government department. There is a long explanation in Japanese, and the following in English, or if not English then it is something else:—

PREFACE.
This map which may be called the Tourist Map of Japan, is prepared for the use of exclusive foreigners, whose desire is to travel through the country, or simply to know the geography of this imperial island. The work is prepared by a specialist who is throug-hly experienced in the map-drawing. It appears to me to be plainly dictated by common sense, that a student of anatomy would begin his work by close study of a suitable anatomical chart before he takes up a knife, while a tourist of any country would be necessitated by careful study of a map of that country which gives essential information which he wants in this map, I believe, will fully suffice the matter to that effect.
TAPASHI NISHIMURA.

There have been many quips as to what might have been had Cleopatra's nose been an eighth of an inch longer, just as there has existed a good deal of speculation since Livy's time whether Alexander could have conquered the Romans. But, an Indian paper points out, it is of greater interest just now to remember that it was the great-grandfather of the new Viceroy who actually prevented Napoleon from invading India. The Lord Minto of that day (1808) hearing that the French Emperor and his then irresistible army meditated a decent upon the Punjab by way of the Gomal Pass, and with the assistance of the Persians who were under the thumb of Napoleon, immediately inaugurated the policy of establishing friendly relations with the Shah and the Amir. Missions were despatched with that object, and in consequence of the treaties they were able to conclude, Napoleon—then at the very summit of his glory—was compelled to relinquish his project. It would certainly be curious if, after the lapse of a century, it should fall to the lot of another Minto to withstand an overland invasion of India, in which Persia and Afghanistan would play the minor parts.

When Mr Balfour gets up to speak he generally gives his hearers something to think about, and the occasion on which he addressed the representatives of the French debt at Westminster Abbey was no exception to the rule. He then wandered on to the causes of war 'I should,' he said, 'hesitate to say this, under modern conditions, it is the warlike forces of great commercial companies which are the cause or occasion of war or of the fear of war. It may seem a paradox—I advance it as a paradox, though one easy of defence—that so far as I can observe the forces which made for peace or war in our western civilisation will be found on the platform, in the Press, and perhaps even in the professional chair. I do not think you will find them in the great defensive forces which nations have to keep up in order to preserve their independence and their honour (hear, hear). These are, in my opinion, the great guarantees of peace. These sentiments will find sympathy in many quarters, but the Russo-Japanese war can hardly be said to have been due to either of these P's Mr Balfour mentions. It was brought about, rather, by Russian obstinacy and blindness, Japan launching out not in response to promptings from the three P's or any one of them, but because she was in danger of absorption by the Bear and because she had to stretch herself in order to ensure future freedom. She has done that to an extent.

LOCAL AND COAST NEWS.

The Hongkong Volunteer Concert is to take place on Saturday evening next at the Parade Ground near the Tramway Station.

Colonel Armstrong, Financial Adviser to Lord Kitchener, is proceeding, it is understood, to England to give evidence in connection with the South African stores investigation.

A telegram has been received from H.
B. M. Consul, Bangkok, by The Colonial Secretary, Hongkong, dated 13th. September, which states that medical inspection is imposed on arrivals from Hongkong, and vessels must go to the quarantine station at Kohphra.

No information is available at Fima regarding the date from which the Viceroy's resignation takes effect. His Excellency will no doubt continue in office until relieved. Lord Curzon's health has improved and he is to be seen driving about Simla daily. It is not expected that Lord Curzon's departure will interfere with the coming tour of the Prince and Princess of Wales in India, though the threatened scarcity may possibly do so.

The number of vessels which arrived in Colombo during August was 235. The total number of calls for present year up to date is 1932 as against 1885 during the same period of 1904. This substantial rise is due to the number of vessels of the British East India Squadron which are now frequent callers at Colombo since the abandonment of the Trincomalee Naval Yard, and at the present time there is quite a British squadron in port, with the flagship of the station, which has been there for two months.

Chinese German Commercial Treaty.
Lu Hui-huan, the President of the Board of Works now detached in Shanghai as Treaty Revision Commissioner, has wired to Sheng Kungpao now in Peking to return to Shanghai speedily so as to conclude the negotiations with the German Commissioners regarding the revised commercial treaty with Germany.

The Empress Entertains.
It is reported that her Majesty the Empress Dowager invited the ladies from all the foreign legations in Peking to attend on the evening of the 15th day of this moon (13th September, which is the day of the Moon Festival) a party on the lake Kunming in the I Ho Park to enjoy a moonlight evening. An order was issued to the General Record and Registry Office of the I Ho Park to prepare steam launches for the purpose.

China's Loss in Manchuria.
The Peking Government has ordered the military governors of the three Eastern Provinces in Manchuria to report upon the losses and damages of the natives of those provinces. From Shengking (Mukden) the report on the same has been sent in which it is stated that the losses of property amount to 2,000,000 taels while the killed and wounded are about 30,000.
The reports from Kirin and Heilungpang are still awaited. When the total sum is known the Peking government will decide whether the sum be claimed from the belligerent powers.

South African Carpenter Cured by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Mr Geo. Taylor, a carpenter at Port Elizabeth, Cape Colony, who had a very bad attack of cramp, colic and dysentery, says: 'I was so bad I had to go to bed, when a friend of mine gave me two doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and I got better at once.
The third dose completely cured me. I am never without it now.' This remedy is for

LOCAL AND COAST NEWS.

The Jontal Secretary has received a telegram from the Straits Settlements stating that quarantine against Hongkong has been withdrawn.

The well-known cruising yacht "Curlow" was offered at auction by Mr Geo.
P. Lammer, at his sale rooms, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, but was not disposed of owing to the owner's reserve not being reached.

Japan and Manchuria.

In the afternoon of the 6th Sept. Mr Uchida, Japanese Minister to Peking, paid a visit to Prince Ching at the Summer Palace or I Ho Park, and informed the Prince of the conclusion of peace and also stated Japan's policy regarding the future of Manchuria. The high metropolitan officials are afraid that Japan may demand from China the interests and rights in Manchuria which were not secured from Russia in the peace negotiations and that such can't be extended more than what had been established in the peace treaty between Japan and Russia.

Royal Army Temperance Association.

Last evening a very enjoyable concert was given in the R. A. Theatre, Victoria Barracks, in connection with the Temperance work of the Royal Artillery. The programme was somewhat long, but the singers never failed to call forth appreciative applause. Mrs M. H. Edwards, and Mrs F. H. Brown were good enough to assist in the evening's enjoyment, and were loudly applauded. Gunner Waters, who has a fine gift of the comic, evoked much hoarse laughter, and genuine delight. But where none failed to give pleasure it is not necessary to mention each by name.
Gramophone selections also were given, and a capital instrument it was. Rev C. Bone, Wesleyan Chaplain, gave a brief address in advocacy of the principles which the Association stands for, and urged the men, while in Hongkong, to stand to their guns, and do their best to urge others to join their party. It would be a good thing if such gatherings were held more frequently, as they would not only give pleasure to the men, but would promote the Association's interests. The theatre was quite full, and many stood round the doors.

The Moon Festival.

Yesterday being the 15th day of the 8th moon, or better known as the Feast of Lanterns, the Chinese population celebrated the festival in a manner befitting the great event. During the day the usual good wishes were exchanged, and most of the principal Chinese homes and private dwellings were gorgeously decorated with flags and banners, while at night, under the light of the brightest moon of the year (according to the Chinese) the usual plentiful supply of moon-cakes were consumed. It was at night, however, that the ignorant European —so to speak—became aware of the fact that something unusual was going on amongst the Chinese. Looking down from the higher levels on the city and harbour the sight which met the eye was exceedingly pretty, not to say picturesque. A large number of the better-class Chinese houses were decorated with the erstwhile Chinese and Japanese lanterns, worked out in various designs, some of which were rather pretty.
Leaving the house tops and turning to the harbour, it could be seen that the floating population were endeavouring to exceed in noise, if not in beauty, their fellow-countrymen on shore, and from Blake Pier, east as far as the eye could reach, one long line of sampans, with their hundreds of twinkling lights could be observed, and one might be forgiven for supposing that from the noise of the crackers, together with the music of a naval engagement was taking place somewhere off the Central Market, with that queen of lights—the Moon—acting as a searchlight.

WEATHER REPORT.

The following notice is issued by Mr

THE SITUATION IN BAKU.

Ominous News.

Desp tele from Baku yesterday afternoon, state the situation is becoming every minute; the town is full of troops who have practically destroyed eight of the artillery quarters.

Tartars and Kurds are still plundering the land proprietors, and Prince Taitsumoff has been assassinated at Gori, in the Tiflis district.

A conference of the leading Noghai firms has been held, at which it was decided to memorialize the Czar, and to refuse to attempt to resume the industry unless solid guarantees were given for adequate protection.

Kurds and Tartars Combine.

Mounted Persian Kurds continue to join the Tartars in massacring the inhabitants and pillaging the Armenian villages with horrible atrocities.

CORRESPONDENCE

SHORT VERSUS LONG RIFLE.

To the Editor of the "CHINA MAIL."
Sir—With reference to your sporting notes on the "Interport Rifle Match" I see it is stated by the "North China Daily News" that the Shanghai team would be at a great disadvantage as it would not be able to use the new short rifle. I do not know if the Shanghai correspondent has ever tried the short rifle, but I sincerely hope that none of the Hongkong team will use this rifle, as it is distinctly inferior to the long rifle. The lateral windage—a distinct improvement for military purposes—is not an advantage at target shooting, as forces the riflemen to fire through the "V" at 500 and 600 yards, whilst most experienced shots prefer shooting over the bar. There is another distinct disadvantage in the short rifle. Owing to the barrel being unencased in wood, the heat waves escape en masse near the end of the barrel and behind the back-sight, and this sets up a very puzzling mirage. Experts at Bisley have proved the long rifle to be the better weapon and it is now renowned that the military authorities will drop the short rifle. I strongly advise those Volunteers who are asked to practice for the Interport Match and who do not possess the long rifle to try and borrow such from their military friends or through the medium of the worthy Hon. Secretary, Mr. Northcote, and start practicing with the long rifle.—Yours, etc.,

OLD SHOT.

MILITARY TRAGEDY AT QUETTA.

QUETTA, August 22.
A tragedy occurred in the 100th Hazaras on Monday morning while the battalion was at drill with arms without ammunition. A young recruit suddenly commenced loading and firing in the direction of a jemadar, shooting one sepoy who afterwards succumbed. The subadar, with presence of mind, shouted to the men to scatter until he obtained ammunition. Having obtained it, he fired 10 rounds. The small loss of life is due to the men scattering and the good shooting of the subadar. This is practically the first serious crime since the embodiment of the regiment.

The following telegraphic advices have been received from Singapore by Messrs Benjamin, Kelly and Potts—The 18000 crushing for the past four weeks produced 755 ounces melted gold from 6077 tons of stone.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

His Excellency Sir Matthew Nathan, Governor of the Colony, presided at a meeting of the Legislative Council which was held this afternoon. There were also present—

His Excellency the Officer Commanding the Troops, Col. C. H. DARRING.

Hon. Mr. T. SHERBOURNE SMITH (Colonial Secretary).

Hon. Sir HENRY BERKELEY, Kt., (Attorney General).

Hon. Mr. L. A. M. JOHNSON (Colonial Treasurer).

Hon. Mr. E. A. IRVING (Registrar General).

Hon. Mr. W. CHARTMAN (Director of Public Works).

Hon. Mr. R. BARKER TAYLOR (Harbour Master).

Hon. Sir G. P. CHARTER, Kt., C.M.G.

Hon. Dr. Ho KAI.

Hon. Mr. W. A. YUK.

Hon. Mr. K. G. SHAWAN.

Hon. Mr. C. W. DICKSON.

Hon. Mr. GREGORY STEWART.

Mr. A. G. M. FLETCHER (Acting Clerk of Councils).

INCREASE OF RATES.

The Colonial Treasurer moved the following resolution—

"That the percentage on the valuation of tenements payable as rate in that portion of the Hill District which is defined in Section 29, Sub-section (1) (b) (as amended by Section 2 of Ordinance No. 41 of 1903) of the Rating Ordinance No. 8 of 1901, be altered from 10 per cent. to 13 per cent. with effect from the 1st of October, 1905."

The Colonial Secretary seconded.

Hon. Mr. Stewart—Might I ask what the advance of 3 per cent. is for? The lighting comes to 100 lights at $3.50 per month, that is $4,000, or 1 per cent. on the assessment of the Peak.

His Excellency the Governor—It is partly for lights and partly for hydrants.

Hon. Mr. Stewart—Will the water supply be constant then?

His Excellency the Governor—As constant as it is elsewhere in the Colony. The resolution was carried.

A LAND BILL.

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill entitled an Ordinance to amend the New Territories Land Ordinance, 1905.

His Excellency the Governor pointed out that the Bill was stated to be an amendment to the New Territories Land Ordinance; it really was supplementary. The substantial part of the Bill related to agricultural land in the New Territory contained hundreds of thousands of names in Chinese and English, of addresses, of areas—most of them of small fractions of an acre—and of amounts of ground rent—most of these of small fractional parts of a dollar. It would be readily understood that in the compilation of these schedules certain errors crept in, largely due to the illiteracy of the land holders.

The errors were brought to light in the issue of titles and it was convenient to rectify them. That was being done and the present Bill was to legislate the corrections.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a second time.

SHIPPING AMENDMENTS.

The Attorney General moved the second reading of the Bill entitled an Ordinance further to amend the Merchant Shipping Ordinance, 1899, and for other purposes.

The Attorney General said that the system at present in force with respect to lights, which were necessary for junks to carry on a good trade, and the Bill provided a better method. The Bill gave power to the Harbour Master to keep the fairway clear and to control the traffic of small craft. It also provided for special licenses to river steamers, whereby riverboats under 370 tons were released from the necessity of carrying specially equipped masters or engineers. In the case of smaller craft, not exceeding 60 tons, both the master and engineer would be considered competent if holding certificates of competency from the Harbour Master.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a second time.

The Council went into Committee on the Bill, through which it passed without amendment.

PROTECTION OF GIRLS.

The Attorney General moved the second reading of the Bill entitled an Ordinance further to amend the Protection of Women and Girls Ordinance, 1897.

The Bill proposed to amend the present law in respect to the protection of girls by raising the age of consent from 16 to 18 years. The Bill also provided for the retention of the evidence of children who are under the age of 7 years, but that evidence must be corroborated in its material points.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a second time.

The Bill passed through committee without amendment.

SUMMARY OFFENCES.

The Attorney General moved the second reading of the Bill entitled an Ordinance to amend the Summary Offences Ordinance, 1845.

This Bill was to give the police greater powers with regard to the suppression of soliciting by women.

The Colonial Secretary seconded, and the Bill was read a second time.

The Bill passed through Committee stage without amendment.

MAGISTRATE'S JURISDICTION.

The Attorney General moved the second reading of the Bill entitled an Ordinance relating to the Summary Jurisdiction of Magistrates in reference to Married Women.

This Bill was to give Magistrates power to impose maintenance orders on husbands in cases of desertion or adultery.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a second time and left in Committee stage.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

A meeting of the Finance Committee was held at the conclusion of the business of the Legislative Council, the Hon. Mr. T. Sherbourne Smith (Colonial Secretary) presiding. The following rates were considered and passed—

CASE AGAINST P. S. LEDBURY.

No Bill Filed.

The Attorney General has declined to file a bill against Peter Stephen Ledbury, detained in the custody of the Superintendent of the Victoria Gaol on a charge of perjury, such charges arising out of a civil cause now pending and undetermined, and the decision of such civil cause not having been postponed in order that the charge of perjury might be disposed of.

It will be remembered that Ledbury was committed for trial at the Magistracy on Monday last on a charge of having committed perjury before Mr. A. Seth, I.S.O., Registrar of the Supreme Court, in connection with proceedings under commission in the divorce proceedings between Thomas A. Mitchell and Henrietta Mitchell, of Kowloon, now pending in Edinburgh.

PEKING NOTES.

(From Our Correspondent.)

PEKING, Sept. 8.
By Imperial Edict of 8th Sept., 1st Sik Fan, attached to the Chinese Legation at Paris, was appointed Minister to France, in which capacity Lau has acted for some time.

In support of his recent memorial to the Throne asking for a constitutional Government, His Excellency Yuan Sai Kai, Viceroy of Chihli and Commander-in-Chief of seven other Provinces, has submitted a scheme dealing with the establishment of parliament in which he suggests self-government in each province. However, nothing will take place until the return of the four ministers who are now proceeding abroad in connection with the matter.

High Minister Luk Chun Lin, not many days ago, joined Viceroy Yuan Sai Kai in memorializing the Throne pointing out the present difficult position in which the Empire is now placed, and the enormous amount of money required for development and re-organization, and asking their Majesties, The Emperor and Empress Dowager, to stop pleasure seeking and the performances of Theatres in the Palace, thus annually saving some 300,000 taels, which will be helpful to the development of the country. It is reported that the Empress duly acceded to their request.

Merchants of Taipei, Formosa, are going in large numbers to the Manchou provinces for trade purposes. It is reported that they are partly despatched by the Japanese Government and partly going on their own account in view of the fact that good business has been done and a large profit reaped since the occupation by Japan of the Lia Tung Peninsula.

JAPANESE INFLUENCE IN CANTON.

CANTON, September 12.
The Viceroy, in view of the constant stream of young Chinese students from the South, as well as from other places, who are proceeding to Japan in order to study, has memorialized the throne for permission to open a preparatory school in Canton where the elementary studies can be mastered before the students go to the island kingdom. This request has been granted, and a Japanese tutor has come over to take charge. It is thought, and naturally, that the expense of this plan will be much less than that of sending men across, whether they are quick at learning or whether they are dull; moreover after the preliminary stage is got over, it can be discovered who of them have a fixed determination to pursue their studies and who of them are merely seeking a living. The idea cannot be a good one, but it shows how the wind is blowing, and indicates that the influence of Japan over China is becoming more powerful.

Notwithstanding the good feeling which has, however, recently obtained between Japan and China, the Viceroy has not hesitated to put his foot down on the efforts of the Buddhist priests to get a firm footing in Canton for the preaching of their doctrines. A petition of some self-efficiency had appeared, through his Consul, for permission to enlarge the sphere of his operation. The Viceroy, in his reply to the Japanese Consul, pointed out that, in the Japanese treaty, there was no provision made for the preaching of the Buddhist religion, and therefore the permission could not be granted. The Viceroy further pointed out that the action of this priest, who without waiting for the requisite permission, opened a Buddhist preaching hall near the East gate, is unlawful, and the hall must be closed. Without waiting therefore for the conclusion of an examination in sundry charges of underhandedness, with which the priest is charged, the Japanese Consul has been instructed to advise the priest in question that the new hall cannot be allowed to remain, as it is an infringement of treaty rights, and will endanger the amity between the two nations.

PARIS LETTER.

Paris, August 4.

Paris is suffering now from want of water. Like the Irishman at the Teaparty; 'there are oceans of water but not a drop to drink.' Every year during the hottest parts of the summer months there is a considerable decrease in the supply of water. As the population of Paris increases largely each year it has become quite habitual for the Parisians to have a yearly water-famine. But the most serious part is that the bakers are having their water supplies cut off from nightfall to daybreak, and as these are just the hours when the bakers use the water there is great commotion, and petitions to the various Governmental Offices are being sent from various quarters. To the English Colony the want of water is an exceedingly great deprivation. Our morning tube have to be given up for the time, and our drinking water curtailed, and we dare not ask about the water used for cooking purposes.

Every year there is a grand lottery in aid of disabled members of the Press. The tickets are sold at 25 francs, and entitle the owner to a chance of gaining a prize of a million francs, two of 200,000 francs, one of 100,000, and a 190 of 1000 francs. The tickets are eagerly bought up throughout France and bring in a good round sum for the Press Benefit Society. The drawing took place yesterday in the large Hall of the Credit Foncier. There was an immense crowd to witness the drawing. There are two large wheels, one containing the prizes, and the other containing the numbers of the tickets sold. Two orphans of the Society Publique Assistance are selected to draw out the numbers. They stand with their arms bared to the shoulder, then they lift up their arms and show the hands with fingers extended and opened out, turn the wheels, and each draws out a number. There is dead silence, but you can actually feel the suppressed excitement whilst the drawing takes place. The winner of the million franc prize, or 200,000 dollars (gold) is a widow named Hoff, who serves in the Soldiers' Canteen at Sedan. The winner of the 200,000 francs are two working men, and the 100,000 franc winner is a widow who sells chocolate. The winner of the million has no relations, and has expressed her intention to adopt the two orphan boys who drew the winning numbers.

The French people and the Press are making strong remarks on the Emperor of Germany's proposal to make the Baltic a "closed" sea. The argument of the Germans is that England has neither interests nor possessions in the Baltic, and if she sends her fleet there it is for the purpose of proclaiming her desire to be Mistress of all Seas. The French Press say: It is true England does not possess any territory on the Baltic, but it is false that she has no interests in those regions. It is absurd that the Baltic should be interdicted to all navies except German, Swedish, Danish, Russian, and Norwegian. To close the Baltic would make Germany mistress of it, and render her coasts unattackable by the fleets of an enemy. If the arguments hold good for the Baltic why should not the Mediterranean be closed, too? An important writer, not over favourable to the English, calls this German project "an absurd dream which cannot be allowed to pass into a reality."

The teaching of English in the French Schools is being warmly supported by almost all sections of political thought. The statement is made that English is spoken by one hundred and fifty-five millions of people at the present day. A century ago it was spoken by twenty millions. As no other European language has made such strikingly enormous progress, it is likely English will become the universal language.

M. Jean de Bonneton has just made public the remarkable statement: Cardinal Gotti, Prefect of the Propaganda, at the Vatican, one of the leaders against France, said to a distinguished Polish nobleman, on May 7, when he was received on diplomatic business: "We have no fear now for the church in France. The Republic is lost. In three months Germany will declare war. France will be conquered. One of the conditions for peace will be the re-establishment of the concordat. The Emperor of Germany has made us this promise." M. de Bonneton adds he defies contradiction of this statement.

The latest news before closing this letter is that the Savings Bank of the Printemps has stopped payment. This means ruin and much distress to thousands of poor working men and women. M. Jaluzot, the cause of this trouble, has sent in his resignation as member of Parliament, and announces his intention to sell all his property for the creditors.

Unnecessary Expense.

A CUTE attack of colic, cholera morbus and dysentery came on without warning and prompt relief must be obtained. There is no necessity of incurring the expense of a physician's service in such cases if Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is at hand. A dose of this remedy will relieve the patient before a doctor could arrive. It is never known to fail, even in the most severe and dangerous cases. BY WHARF AND WAVE.

The four-masted American bark "Roanoke" took fire while loading chrome ore on the west coast of Noumen on August 9th and subsequently became a total loss. She burnt fiercely all night and next morning was scuttled at her moorings and sank in 47 feet of water leaving only her masts visible. The "Roanoke" had the distinction of being the largest wooden vessel afloat, and during her visit to Sydney this year (she arrived on April 29, from New York via Melbourne) was the object of considerable interest. The vessel belonged to the four masted order, and was a fine stamp of American clipper, built on capital lines, with plenty of beam and a good sheer. Her net tonnage was 3317 tons, and her principal dimensions:—Length of keel, 370ft; length overall, 350ft.; beam, 49ft. 2in.; and depth, 29ft. 2in. The height of the foremast from the deck was 187 feet, and the length of the main yard 55ft. With all her sails set she spread 15,000 square yards of canvas. She had four headsails, with an aggregate of 846 square yards of canvas in them. Her main and mizzenmasts contained 2424 square yards of canvas. In her hull were 24,070 cubic feet of oak, 1,250,000 feet of yellow pine, and 225 tons of iron.

A VINDICTIVE OFFICIAL.

A strange tale comes from Peking which reminds one of stories of the middle ages, says the N. O. D. News. A certain Mongol prince of the Second Order, who holds an important Palace appointment, had a favourite secondary consort to whom he would frequently make empty threats, which while not seriously meant, to a bystander would sound terrible. Amongst the numerous retainers who followed their lord from Mongolia to Peking was a hitherto trusted majordomo, named Ch'ang Chiu, whose duty was to execute his lord's orders especially such as related to the household. Now this majordomo was a vindictive creature and hated his lord's favourite secondary consort for many snubs that he had received at her hand, and especially because one day, having an eye on a very lucrative post, for his son and not daring to ask the prince for it, the majordomo asked the secondary consort to obtain the post for him. Now this favour if granted, it is said, would have involved the good name of the prince, and because of this the secondary consort refused point blank the majordomo's request. The man never forgot this, and patiently waited for an opportunity to pay off old scores. The chance came one day not long ago, and he settled old scores with savage cruelty.

It appears that one morning, some three weeks ago, just before going to the Palace to attend to his duties, the prince was jesting with this secondary consort and in the hearing of his majordomo, who was on duty at the moment to hand up his lord's official hat, the prince was heard to jokingly say: "All right, I'll bury you alive then," and with a hoot came out of his room, and leaving his hat from the majordomo, left the house attended by his usual retainers. Having waited until he was sure his lord was well on his way to the Palace and unlikely to return for some hours, the revengeful majordomo, calling together half-a-dozen savage Mongols belonging to the household, and whom he could depend, entered the courtyard, around three sides of which ran the apartments belonging to this favourite of his lord, and telling a waiting woman, who came in to the courtyard to ask what he wanted, that he had come to notify the secondary consort of her lord's commands, requested the lady to come out to learn them. Utterly unaware of the cruel fate in store for her, and thinking that the prince must have given the majordomo some commands when leaving the house, the secondary consort came out as far as the door of her sitting room and told the majordomo to repeat her lord's commands. Behind the major domo stood the half-a-dozen savages, and he, having first gone on one knee as a salute, told his mistress that he had come to bury her alive in obedience to his lord's commands given a quarter of an hour before. She begged for her remission, but the prince had only said the cruel words in jest, and the aid of her serving women and slave girls who came out to attempt a rescue, the seven savages dragged the unfortunate woman to the garden standing in the rear of the "or" or princely residence, and having bound her throw her into a hole which, by the way, the majordomo had already ordered the gardener to dig for him. The next step was to throw enough earth over the unfortunate to cover her body, and having himself jumped on top to level the spot, the majordomo coolly returned to his usual duties, no one in the household daring to prevent his savage work because "the prince had commanded it."

When the prince at last returned from the palace it was of course too late, and in his rage he had the majordomo beaten until he was half dead, when he ordered the punishment to stop, intending to reserve the savage for further tortures. The next day the prince reported the matter to the Empress Dowager asking for posthumous honours for his secondary consort who had died so pitifully. This was granted, and the majordomo was then publicly executed and his savage assistants were strangled.

I QUIT COUGHING.—Shortly after I commenced taking Stearns' White, that delicious preparation of cod liver oil, it stopped the cough, and is building up my health.

Cuts, Bruises and Burns Quickly Healed.

CHAMBERLAIN'S Pain Balm is an antiseptic liniment and when applied to cuts, bruises and burns, causes them to heal without maturation and much more quickly than by the usual treatment. It allays the pain of a burn or scald almost instantly. Unless the injury is very severe it does not leave a scar. For sale by All Dealers, WATKINS & Co., Ltd., General Agents.
